

A black and white photograph of the exterior of a Gothic cathedral, showing the intricate stonework and the tall, slender towers. The image is oriented vertically, with the cathedral's facade and towers running along the left and center. The architecture features pointed arches, flying buttresses, and a dense arrangement of windows and decorative elements. The towers are tall and narrow, with multiple levels of windows and pinnacles. The overall style is characteristic of late Gothic or early Renaissance architecture.
